About the Company

Rentadella is a fashion rental platform that allows you to borrow all kinds of designer dresses at a fraction of the cost. It's the brainchild of Singapore-based singer-songwriter Ming Bridges.

It's been amazing being able to deliver to customers within 4 hours. We're able to have an edge by being able to deliver emergency orders and also arrange pickups and change destinations on the day itself. Our customers love the flexibility of the service.

Flexible, on demand, same day deliveries

As a fashion rental service, Rentadella needed a flexible courier service that could support her customers with speedy delivery services, pickups and returns at any time of the day, as well as accommodate to any last minute changes they had.

She did not want their busy schedules to be a deterrent from using Rentadella's services. Convenience was key.

Pickupp messages my customers and provides the contact details of the delivery agent when they're on the way which is a great touch so if anything, my customers can get in touch with the delivery agent.

Streamlined customer service

Rentadella prides themselves on the ability to provide a disruptive fashion rental experience. Providing excellent customer service was thus crucial to positioning the company as more than just a rental dress business, but a service that satisfies and meets the needs of its customers.

With deliveries being a customer's first physical touchpoint with the brand, good customer service support was necessary. As her business grew, Rentadella had to be mindful of her ability to manage the various customer queries that came in on a regular basis. By outsourcing her deliveries to a delivery provider that provides good customer service support, she was able to streamline the queries that came in.
